GOVERNOR CALLS ON ALL TO GIVE AID TO RED CROSS

Urging the people of this state to support the Red Cross with contributions to enable it to continue the splendid work it is doing for humanity, Gov. Thomas E. Campbell yesterday addressed the people of Arizona.

His letter, calling special attention to the fact that Sunday, Nov. 13, has been designated as Red Cross Sunday and should be observed as such, is as follows:

To the People of Arizona:
It is an important honor to belong to a great nation. To deserve a good country, to be a true citizen of this land, and to respond to the real significance of our part in the America of today, require character and intelligence of a high and definite order. Furthermore, to merit our place in the great brotherhood of humanity implies acceptance of certain specific responsibilities.

One of the most important of these obligations is that which arises from the sufferings of mankind. So effectively has applied science enlarged our horizon that there is almost no corner of the globe whose woes and sorrows is not reflected in some way in our own lives. No longer are the famines and floods, the earthquakes and the conflagrations of other continents, remote catastrophes, of which we learn too late to do anything to relieve and succor those in distress. Now, when they come to us with promptness and accuracy, and almost immediately relief is under way.

Without efficient organization such alleviation of human suffering would be impossible. The individual, regardless of his good intentions, would stand helpless in the face of modern disasters, for the relief of which even the largest fortunes would not avail. The American Red Cross, is the name of the efficient machine whereby the good intentions of the individual are translated into deeds of mercy; it is the organization which at any and all times is prepared to meet the exigencies and demands of a world that, despite all that has been accomplished by medical and engineering science, is still subject to appalling disasters. In our own country, and around the entire circumference of the globe, the Red Cross is found responsive to cries of distress and with promptitude it undertakes the task of the hour, however difficult it may be.

There is no community so rich or so happily situated that it can consider itself independent of the services of the Red Cross. Disasters come upon us without warning and the prosperous and thriving city of today is often the needy community of the morrow. Fire and flood, tornado and pestilence are no respecters of time or place. It behooves us all, therefore, to rally to the support of this organization upon which we may be compelled to call in the hour of distress.

Sunday, Nov. 13, 1921, has been designated as Red Cross Sunday, in connection with the annual roll call of this splendid organization, and I sincerely hope that the people of Arizona will, in as far as they are financially able, support the Red Cross with contributions, thus enabling it to continue the very splendid work which it is doing for humanity all over the world.

THOMAS E. CAMPBELL,
Governor of Arizona.

MADISON FARMERS TO MEET TONIGHT

The regular meeting of the Madison farm bureau will be held at the Madison school at 7:30 o'clock this evening. A very interesting program has been arranged. C. S. Brown, president of the Arizona Farm Bureau federation, will be the principal speaker. He is authority on the federal farm work.

Harry Austin Davis, editor of the Southwestern Stockman-Farmer, also will speak. Mr. Davis and his publication have been for many years friends to the Arizona stockman and stockman in fighting for the interest of the state.

Marvin Young, field secretary for the county, will explain the program of activities of the county bureau as being worked out by the county directors. Every one interested in profitable farming should make an effort to be present. This is a farmers' organization and it is up to the farmers to collectively work out the many problems that confront his business.

JUNIOR GUILD TO HAVE SHOW BOOTH

Through the generosity of various merchants, the Junior guild, which operates the Day Nursery, will have a booth in the Industrial exposition. This booth will be stocked with refreshments, such as sandwiches, pie, Goughnuts, ice cream, coffee, milk, etc., and the proceeds from the sale will go to the support of the Day Nursery.

The booth will be in charge of Mrs. E. D. Johnston and Mrs. W. R. Bertram, who are looking after the arrangements. Those who will conduct the booth during the week are as follows: Mrs. A. W. Flickenger, Monday; Mrs. William Swartz, Tuesday; Mrs. Donald Gilchrist, Wednesday; Mrs. Carleton Wood, Thursday; Mrs. Harry Welch, Friday, and Mrs. C. A. Young, Saturday.

The hours during which the booth will be open for business will be from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. and from 5 p. m. throughout the evening.

NEWSPAPER WOMAN HERE FOR WINTER

Mrs. Effie Leese Scott, newspaper woman and magazine writer of note, is a recent arrival in Phoenix who will winter here. Active in newspaper and publicity work in New York and Denver, Mrs. Scott has had many interesting experiences in the work which she will carry on while in Arizona.
